Dyer, who said that he had just left Gov. Plafied sick in bed, and that it might endanger his life to try to speak to Congress. It being known that both Gov. Plafied and Mr. Belcher were in town, their absence was decidedly suggestive of something peculiar. Neither Mr. Dane put in an appearance, although he had been expected to do so.

During the speech by Messrs. Reed and Thibault, about half the audience had left the hall, and when Mr. Thibault finished speaking there were by actual count 238 people in the hall. There is no doubt but that the leading men are somewhat discouraged at the outlook.

THOSE INVISIBLE INDEPENDENTS.

It is reported that the adjourned meeting of the Independents, so called, met at one of the parlors of the Preble House yesterday morning at 10 o'clock. The names of several well known gentlemen were mentioned as having been present and in order to test the truth of the statement a reporter for the Press called on each of them. Every man denied the truth of the report.

Hon. William W. Thomas said he was not at the meeting, neither would he be in favor of such a movement now at least. He said "things could be called the year for such a movement." While Mr. Thomas thought there were a great many admirable features that had been mentioned in connection with an Independent stand, he thought the Boston Advertiser had stated the reason very clearly.

Mr. Thomas (though who, however, he did take a part in an Independent movement it would be to ask itself.

Ex-United States Marshal B. E. Murray was not registered at any of the hotels, as far as ascertained, although his name was mentioned, and he was probably not in the city.

Ex-Marshal Marble was not in the city yesterday, and it is not believed he is in the movement.

Ex-Sheriff E. N. Perry denied his presence on the occasion.

J. M. Stone, of Kennebec, may have been present. It was known that he had been seen in the city.

Mr. J. R. Chapman may have been present. He stated frankly to the reporter last Friday that the meeting announced for that day adjourned until Monday in order to hear from certain gentlemen, and therefore it is probable he was at the meeting yesterday.

The prevalent opinion among those who have been quoted with sympathy with an Independent movement, coincides with that expressed by Mr. Thomas, and also that of the other gentlemen mentioned, and is an encouragement to speak of these gentlemen as all men of character and would scorn to say they were not participants in such a movement if they were.

NOT BLACKBURN "SAY DOWN" REED.

The manner in which Blackburn "sat down" on Reed of Maine, the other day, in the discussion about charges made against the clerk of the House, that he had falsified the record, is described by a Washington correspondent.

Mr. Reed had just made some remarks upon Blackburn's criticisms, and the latter rose to reply. The correspondent said:

"When Mr. Blackburn took the floor to reply it was with an air which plainly said: 'Watch me now. I am going to jump on Reed.' The gentleman from Maine heaped upon him a great deal of abuse, and he gets up here to praise about post-parturition he reminds me of nothing but this world and the devil, painting the scene of man's redemption."

"You would naturally be most familiar with the words of the other world, which is the only part you will be likely to see," retorted Reed.

Blackburn was staggered, but he managed to reply that he should be delighted to be retired from the contest, and he retired from the floor.

Blackburn's jaw fell, and he rode off without a word. He was completely defeated.

Blackburn's defeat was a great victory for Reed. He had shown that he was a man of character and would not be intimidated by a man of Blackburn's caliber.

Instead of the supplementary statement of Mr. Hildes having been refused by the House Committee on Foreign Relations, as was very remarkably stated in a Washington dispatch, it was received by the House of Representatives, and we shall print the full text in Thursday's issue.

The Ohio Republicans are well satisfied with the platform of the Democratic State Convention. The failure to take any stand upon the question of the platform will not carry the floating vote to the Democracy, nor will the platform of the platform satisfy the law and order Democrats in the rural districts. The frank, manly position of the Republicans forms a contrast that will grow more striking as the canvass becomes older.

Much interest is attached to the preparations being made in England for a public celebration of Mr. Gladstone's completion of half a century of Parliamentary life. Mr. Gladstone was returned for Newark immediately after the passage of the Reform Bill. His first election address was dated from Newark, October 9, 1832.

Mr. William W. Thomas said he was not at the meeting, neither would he be in favor of such a movement now at least. He said "things could be called the year for such a movement."
